Giving Thanks: Thoroughbred Times Days

by Steve Haskin

It was the winter of 1986, and I was in a major lull in my potential writing career. Still toiling aimlessly in the library of the Daily Racing Form after 18 years, I had stopped writing freelance features for the Thoroughbred Record. In addition, Stud & Stable, England's version of the Blood-Horse and Thoroughbred Record where I had been American correspondent, had closed down, and my column for England's Sporting Chronicle, in which I wrote about the exploits of European horses that had been sent to the U.S. and which I wrote for free, was discontinued in the late 70s. Shortly after, the Sporting Chronicle, which competed with the Sporting Life, also went out of business.

I was actually just becoming enthusiastic about racing again after a brief hiatus in 1982, '83 and '84,

ROCKIN REPEAT

Settled early, out past half, advanced on rim to lane, ducked inside, stalled a bit.

Rail, one of many.

CENALTA COUGAR

Left well, tripped to last bend, covered, kicked 3wide, led, caught by one she led up. Extra week off, adds fresh Nick.

NAT A KATT

Off gate 6-8, failed to get involved. Finally an inside post.

CHILMA

Tipped out last turn, no go, back to rail, driven in lane. Post relief noted.

BE MY LUCKY LADY

1st over into far turn, suddenly 4th over, followed 3wide, urged. Obvious threat for all.

CENALTA CALL GIRL

Away well, first over near half, floated up on rim, some late urging, no doubt. Week off since. Major player too.

MY HEARTS CONQUEST

Parked turn, yielded to pair of q-movers, out late last turn, 3wide to lead, caught. William chose. Fires out again?

during which my wife Joan and I had moved to New Jersey and become fanatic birdwatchers, especially me, and racing took a back seat to this new passion.

One afternoon, I was in the advertising department at DRF when I noticed a newspaper sitting on top of a pile of other papers. It was a tabloid style newspaper called the Thoroughbred Times. I had never heard of it, so I checked the mast head and saw that the editor was Mark Simon, with whom I had worked at the Thoroughbred Record, and the magazine was only a couple of months old. Mark had obviously moved on to higher things and I knew from my experiences with him at the Record that this would be a first-class publication.

The Thoroughbred Record eventually became a quarterly and then shut down, leaving only the Blood-Horse and Thoroughbred Times as racing's two weekly publications.

I called Mark and asked him if he would be inter-

Left with a few, popped out half, advanced to lane, urged to save show. Rail again, small shot.

ULYSSES BLUE CHIP

Parked eighth plus, back out near half, brief cover from winner half, kept grinding on rim, urged to save show. Post switch noted.

MUSICIAN

Wide turn one, out near quarter, rimmed balance, faded. Third start back. Major class relief. Figures strong.

TOUCH OF THE PAST

Sat in whole trip, gapped far turn, failed to make any menacing moves. Maybe an undercard piece of it.

WINONEFORDOUG

Sped under urging to top, yielded to winner past quarter, mild traffic str, cleared, easy 2nd best. Main threat to #3?

REGINA BEACH

Settled in behind top pair, charged out midfar turn, held okay into 27.4. Richard returns. Plan from outside?

ested in having me write for the Times, mainly features, many of them focusing on New Jersey racing and breeding. He agreed and I immediately began to pound out features again. Between the birth of my daughter Mandy in 1984, which stifled my bird watching career, and this new exciting publication, my passion for racing was rejuvenated.

When Monmouth Park opened for the 1986 season, Mark asked me if I would like to cover the stakes there, as well as at the Meadowlands and the United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City. There were no computers back then, and I would type my race story, then drive almost an hour to Monmouth Park on Monday morning and have someone in the communications department fax my story to Ron Mitchell at the Times.

In 1987 I attended the Preakness and Belmont Stakes for the Thoroughbred Times, writing a full-length feature on Alysheba's trainer Jack Van Berg as well as sidebar Led early, brushed back quarter, sped up far turn, some urging, confident. Fresh Lasix. Hikes. Price thought from the pole.

ITSGOODTOBEKING
Led into turn, yielded, tracked balance, urged, no close into fast mile. Sits in hopes for a slice?

MUCHO MACHO MAN
Cover nearing half, first over into last bend, kept grinding, held well in solid Expo bow. Adds fresh Lasix here. Post relief too.

MACHABYEBABY
First out well before half, sped by leader into far turn, attacked, kept going, nailed, ouch. Solid form. Another gimmick must.

ZACHARIAHS HONOR
Out near half, broke, tough to gauge. Extra time off. Terry returns.

MAJOR JESSE
Rode cones whole mile, driven in the lane, no close in fast heat. Luke back in the bike. Undercard maybe.

WEST FOR GOLD
Very quick leaving, yielded quarter, mild shuffle far turn, clear in lane, urged, up wire. Outside again. Fires out?

features. I had the privilege of covering the biggest race of the summer that year, the Haskell Invitational, which featured a showdown between Alysheba, Bet Twice, and Lost Code in the race that put Monmouth and the Haskell on the map on a national scale. Later that year, Mark asked me if I was willing to move to Lexington to become the managing editor.

With my daughter only 3 years old and my in-laws having just moved to New Jersey to be close to their granddaughter, I couldn't just pack up and move. Plus, I loved living in New Jersey and had no desire to live in Lexington. A short while later, Mark informed me he had hired one of the editors from the DRF's Los Angeles office named Ray Paulick. I continued to cover New Jersey racing, write national features, and help in the coverage of the Triple Crown races and Breeders' Cup. I met Ray for the first time at the 1988 Preakness. PYLON RULE

(For Horses Racing Without Interference)

1. Going inside two (2) pylons and lapped-on at the finish: The offending horse will be disqualified and placed behind any lapped-on horses at the wire.
2. Going inside three (3) or more consecutive pylons: The offending horse will be disqualified and placed last.

really well and they became more like friends than business associates. I had never enjoyed writing so much.

Between Mark, Ray, and myself, we helped build the Thoroughbred Times into an entertaining and informative publication that soon began to rival the Blood-Horse. At least I hoped I was a major part of it. It was the editorial talents of Mark and Ray that saw the publication expand and improve. As I began writing more and more, my fear was that the DRF editor. Fred Grossman, who refused to let me write for the Form, would balk at me writing for another publication on a regular basis. I was all prepared to use the pseudonym Ard Patrick (the winner of the 1902 Epsom Derby), but surprisingly Grossman had no objections. But he remained steadfast about keeping me in the library and not allowing me to write for the Form.

years, and then came the birth of the Racing Times, a new daily to dare challenge the mighty DRF. Others had tried before and failed to topple racing's powerhouse monopoly. This new publication brought with it many changes in the structure of the racing media, while adding new innovations to its past performances.

Ray left the Thoroughbred Times to become the Midwest editor of the Racing Times. And with DRF needing all the ammunition they could muster to combat this new threat and its team of all-star writers, handicappers, and editors, the managing editors of DRF, spearheaded by Joe Rosen, Greg Gallo, and George Bernet, pulled a coup and convinced our publisher Bill Williams to overrule Grossman and let me write for the Form. end my stint with Thoroughbred Times. While I'm giving thanks, I will forever be grateful to Joe, Greg, and George for also altering the course of my career and allowing me to take another huge step forward.

After the Racing Times closed down after only one year, Ray was named Editor-in-Chief of the Blood-Horse in 1992, and he and Mark were now competitors. The more the Thoroughbred Times grew, the fiercer the rivalry grew. Ray, like Mark, was a natural in understanding the corporate world of racing and tackled all issues. While both were experts in every aspect of the sport and adept at looking toward the future, Mark was more laid back and remained behind the scenes compared to Ray's more aggressive approach, making himself more visible.

STARTER'S RULES

1728. Starter's Control. The starter shall have control over the horses from the formation of the parade until he gives the word 'go.' The starter shall report to the stewards any misconduct or violation on the part of the driver and may order any unmanageable or disabled horse declared (scratched) from the race with the concurrence of the stewards.

1729. Starting the race. The starter shall bring the horses to the starting gate as near one-quarter of a mile from the starting point as the track may permit, and shall endeavor to get all horses away in position and on gait. If a horse refuses to come to the gate, is unmanageable or liable to cause an accident or injury to any other horse or driver, it may be declared and all monies wagered on that horse shall be refunded.

1730. Recalls. The starter may sound a recall for only the following reasons: 1-A horse scored ahead of the gate; 2- There is interference prior to the word 'go' being given; 3-A horse has broken equipment; 4-A horse falls prior to the word 'go' being given. There shall be no recall after the word 'go' is given and any horse, regardless of his position or an accident, shall be deemed a starter from the time he entered into the starter's control unless dismissed.

Left to tuck, burst out far turn, angled into contention, driven, just fair. Has speed. One of many considerations.

AWHIMAWAY

Left fast, yielded, tracked to lane, some traffic, had some go. Negative post switch is the drawback tonight.

CAPITOL HILL

Led into turn, yielded half, tracked to lane, cleared, tapped, up. Sharp, stuck outside. Fires out?

Award from the Kentucky Thoroughbred Owners and Breeders Association for outstanding coverage of the Thoroughbred industry.

While I don't see or talk to Ray as much as I would like to these days, Mark and his wife Mary, a brilliant writer and historian who has won three Eclipse Awards, have become dear friends since they moved to New York City for Mark's job at the DRF.

Since joining the Alexander Hamilton Awareness Society and becoming Revolutionary War buffs, we have visited just about every Revolutionary War site in New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, as well as seeing the musical Hamilton together. They are back in Kentucky now, but we try to see each other as much as possible. Joan and I truly miss them and our weekends together.

Mark and I have come a long way in the past 32

Individual Recap Last Race Footnotes

SECRET CHORD

Took cover from half, good lead up trip, stalled out final eighth. Adds fresh Lasix tonight.

WINDOW WIPER

Led into turn, yielded, 3hole past quarter, traffic balance, never fully clear. Decent form. Slim call in this.

FULL MOON RISING

Out mid turn to top, braked, attacked last bend, faded deep in drive. Third start back angle.

HES DONE IT ALL

Out from half, advanced to lane, held tough to the wire. One more must use.

GENUINE DESIRE

Saved all ground, heavy traffic from half, never any room, had go. Major contender in here.

KING OF THE SWAMP

Out past half, gapped far turn, tired readily. Likely longshot.

DARK PRINCE

Parked eighth, braked to half, attacked far turn, stalled once passed. Fires out?

FOX VALLEY SLY

Left 3wide, parked turn, yielded, tracked to lane, cleared bit late, some urging. May have to leave as well.

HOT ON THE PACE

Sent hard 3wide, became rough mid turn, caught cover past quarter, stalled last bend. Noteworthy class relief after the scratch. Player.

Race 12 News

years since I called him about writing for his new publication. There are few people I have more respect for in this industry than Mark and Ray, two of the most exceptional editors and visionaries this sport has ever known.

But most important, everything I am today and everything I have attained in racing I owe to them, along, of course, with Joan for her constant inspiration.

Every time my career seemed to veer off course or threatened to come to a screeching halt, it was Mark or Ray who were there to guide me back to my chosen path. In short, I wouldn't be where I am today without them, and I am long overdue in thanking them.

So, thanks, guys, and continued success in the industry you both have made so much better.

Individual Recap Last Race Footnotes

HOTMONES
Pushed leaving, yielded, tripped to lane, cleared, some urging, just fair. Usable from the pole.

BETTORDAYS R CUMIN
Came out on long train past half, followed winner, driven, mild rally. Post relief should cause.

NATIVES REVENGE
Looped leaving, took back to drop, followed, stalled last quarter. Off a while. Drops in for 3k.

TORNADO HENRY
Rode cones in 4hole behind top trio, cleared in lane, some urging. Steve returns. Also drops in for 3k.

HURRIKANE BABYKANE
Sat in whole trip, even thru the stretch drive. Longshot.

COWBOYS DIRTYBOOTS
2nd over half, angled into lane, circled by 3rd over romping winner, driven. Hoping for more live cover

MR RIGHTNOW
Led early, pocket into turn, stalked balance, driven, had to need trip. Drops, tighter now? Adds Mooney.

PROCRASTINATINPEAT
Left well, settled for soft trip to lane, cleared, driven, only fair. Negative post switch big problem.

ALLAMERICAN SOLO
Swung out into far turn, followed rival 3-4wide, closed well late. One more dropper to consider.
