Neumeister, Seibel Remember Kirschenbaum

Cal Expo announcer Gary Seibel first met Alan Kirschenbaum in the early 80s at Pompano Park in Florida. "I was track announcer and publicity director and Alan was working for trainer George Berkner," Seibel said.

"He'd come into the publicity office to use one of the desks that had a typewriter - yes a typewriter! - to work on his projects, which at the time I think included writing for Mad Magazine.

"I liked him from the start. He was a great guy with a great sense of humor, and we had a lot in common since we were both native New Yorkers who loved harness racing.."From time to time, we would get into a long conversation about anything and everything, and he would say to me, 'this (Hollywood) is my job, harness racing is my passion.' That was so evident in

HES DONE IT ALL

Away well, tracked top pair from quarter, some stretch urging, another solid tuner. Segues into claimers. Ready?

DARK PRINCE

Tapped leaving, led at once, released to pair of qtr movers, chased top pair rest of way, mild traffic, some urging. Decent form. A gimmick must.

MR RIGHTNOW

Left with a few, tripped out mild last turn traffic, no rally in bow for Johnson barn. Still not sure what to think.

HOT ON THE PACE

Left fast, broke into turn one, lost all chance. Dropped in price again. Fires out?

FULL MOON RISING

Led into turn, yielded, tracked to lane, faded out late stages. Extra week off. Enters for a tag. Chip returns. Can play in here.

LUCKY IVAN

Followed winner out near half, lost cover far turn, flattened into lane. Also dropped in for slightly cheaper price tonight. Usable.

GENE EUGENE

Left 3wide around breaker, parked turn, braked, yielded to winner 5/8s, stalked rest of way, easy 2nd best. Has speed to overcome outside. Looks best on paper.

what did in and for the sport, both nationally and in California.

"His contributions to the sport he loved are with us today in so many ways. I think of him every night when I open the Cal Expo program because his name appears in the program every racing night through the horses he has raced, bred and owned in the Golden State."

Gary recalled a time when he lived in Los Angeles and Alan invited him to a taping of his CBS sitcom "Yes Dear".

"My wife and I were sitting in the front row of the audience, and before the taping began, Alan came out and introduced himself to the crowd and told everyone what to expect during the live taping of the show. "When he saw us, he paused, came over and gave us both a big hug. It really touched us both. After the taping, he brought us down to the stage, where we met the cast and production crew and got to hang out for a while. He was a great friend and a special person."

NEVER ONEBADCHANGE
Returns from layoff. Looks rather iffy to say the least.

CLAUDIA ANTONIA
Broke before the start, disappeared. Fast but unreliable. Price could drift even more tonight.

JK JOURNEY
Sped 3wide to top, braked to half, opened up far turn, easy once again. Has found himself in soft company of late. Facing a dangerous class dropper.

LODI JAZZ PLAYER
Looped leaving, parked eighth plus, pocket to half, lugged out, faded. Undercard seems his base case scenario.

GRAVEL GIRL
Broke before the start, disappeared. Price should also drift on her. Not totally impossible.

MANLEY STANLEY
Soft trip along rail whole, way, closed well on own to be easy 2nd best. Seems likely to land undercard slot in here.

DEEPLY
Left to midturn tuck, backed up by stalled foe far turn, cleared, solid tuner. Enough class relief to make her a must use.

Second Chance at a Dream

by Steve Haskin

Sometimes, names of Thoroughbreds are implanted in our psyche as if they will remain embedded there forever. It happens every year on the first Saturday in May. But in some cases those names, for whatever reason, turn out to be fleeting and soon fade from consciousness.

It was nine months ago, following a contentious Kentucky Derby trail, that it seemed the name Always Dreaming would be rolling off our tongues for years to come.

At least we had the Triple Crown and beyond to look forward to, although the length of his racing career was questionable, as is the case with all 3-year-old superstars. It doesn't take long for breeding farms to attach themselves to a hotshot 3-year-old like a barnacle to Took easy run along the pylons to str, angled out, urged, nice rally. Moves inside. Soft trip for him. Dangerous again.

PANCETTA

Shuffled last past half, came 5th over, followed 4wide, solid finish. Drops even more. Luke's choice. Too good for these?

MIGHTY FINE HIHO

First over past half, cover into lane, broke, tough to gauge. If you excuse his last. He's obviously usable in the gimmicks.

RUSTY CARTER

Out past half, never really had cover, kept grinding, hung bit late. Maybe a small slice of it.

HELLO SEVENS

Soft trip to far turn, popped out late, cover into lane, away easily. Steps back up. Might be boosted by the confidence building win.

PAYDAZE A ROCKIN

Left 3wide, parked quarter, attacked into str, faded out once passed. Joins Nichols barn off the claim. Adds Steve Wiseman.

So, when Always Dreaming followed up his brilliant victory in the Florida Derby with an equally convincing score in the Kentucky Derby, it looked as if a new star was born with an unlimited future. We at least would be able to enjoy him through the end of the year, as we did with American Pharoah.

Always Dreaming went into the Preakness, now with the Triple Crown dreams of his owners, which consisted of Brooklyn Boyz Stable, Teresa Viola, St Elias Stable, MeB Racing, Siena Farm and West Point Thoroughbreds. Heading the ownership were the families of Anthony Bonomo of Brooklyn Boyz, his wife Mary Ellen,

MELODIES THAT ROCK

DELIGHTFULLY WILD

Led into turn, soon 2nd, popped out into far turn, rimmed balance, tough to wire. Another good post. She's very dangerous as well.

LA DIVA DE ROSA

There also was the emotional story of jockey Johnny Velazquez and his agent Angel Cordero Jr., who brought the young rider to America from Puerto Rico and pretty much adopted him as he would a son.

It was that special relationship and Cordero's quest to make Velazquez, who didn't speak English when he arrived, a champion jockey and one of the greatest ever, that prevented Cordero from giving up on life after his wife Marjorie was killed by a hit and run driver. That quest drove him even harder, hooking him up with Todd Pletcher, and now they finally reached the pinnacle, with Velazquez and Pletcher teaming up to win the Kentucky Derby together after so many attempts.

And so it was that the dream of Always Dreaming ended abruptly in Baltimore, as the colt inexplicably faded badly to finish eighth, beaten nearly 14 lengths, as everyone watching in disbelief.

The Travers answered that question with cruel bluntness, as Always Dreaming faded once again, this time finishing ninth, beaten 18 1/2 lengths. This time, the dream looked over for good. trying to get over the shocking defeats of the seemingly invincible Arrogate, the name of Always Dreaming seemed to be fading from public consciousness, his reputation tattered beyond repair.

Shortly after the Travers debacle, it was announced that WinStar Farm had entered into an agreement to acquire Always Dreaming's 2017 breeding rights. They now had to make the best of a bad situation from a marketing standpoint - selling a stallion who had gone completely off form for no known reason.

They did the best they could, ignoring the Travers and boasting the colt's other traits.

"We are excited to add another potentially breed-shaping stallion from the dominant Unbridled line, which has proven to be today's preeminent classic sire line," said Elliott Walden, WinStar President & CEO.

have a complete physical examination, after which a decision would be made whether or not to stand him for the 2018 breeding season.

It was that examination by Dr. Larry Bramlage of Rood & Riddle that apparently answered all the questions.

Always Dreaming was found to be suffering from stomach ulcers, so severe that Dr. Steve Reed of Rood & Riddle said it was one of the worst cases of ulcers he has seen.

According to Pletcher, Always Dreaming's appetite was always good and he had been treated with Gastrogard all year, showing no symptoms of the ulcers. It was a shock to everyone at the barn.

By October, between the treatment and being turned out on the farm for a month, the ulcers were completely cleared, and now there was a fresh start to look forward to in 2018.

Quarter moved, braked, sped up far turn, held okay till deep str. Drops, rail, adds Luke. Use.

LIL ORPHAN ELMER

Out past half, bad flow, back to rail, finally free in lane, urged, flew too late. Steve returns. Moves inside. One of many.

SANTANNA SAM

WALKER MEISTER

2nd over near half, tipped wide, urged, fair close. Drops, better post. Maybe a midpriced thought.

COWBOY MATHIS

DEWEYDIDDONEGOOD

It is now almost four months later and Always Dreaming, on January 29, turned in his first breeze, going three furlongs in :37, moving along at an easy controlled clip.

The name that has faded from most people's minds has a second life. The Kentucky Derby winner is back, just as the sport's main star, Gun Runner, arrives as Three Chimneys Farm to embark on his new career. Yes, racing needs Always Dreaming; the Always Dreaming they cheered down the stretch at Churchill Downs and who thrilled them at Gulfstream Park.

We can start thinking about Brooklyn again, about more glory for John Velazquez and Angel Cordero, about the return of the Kentucky Derby winner. We can all start dreaming again.
